TERM: FIRST 2026/2027 ACADEMIC SESSION

WEEK: ONE

CLASS: SS1

SUBJECT: Citizenship & Heritage Studies

TOPIC: Meaning & Scope of Civic Education

Introduction

- Civic education is the study of the rights, duties and responsibilities of citizens, and of how the state is governed. It teaches citizens how to live peacefully and participate in nation building.

Meaning of key terms

- Civics — the study of citizenship and government; citizen — a legal member of a state with full rights and duties; nationality — the legal bond between a person and a state; civic education — the learning process that prepares a person for responsible citizenship.

Components/scope of civic education

- Knowledge of the constitution and the rule of law; human rights and duties of citizens; national symbols, identity and unity; democratic processes (elections, voting); public accountability and anti-corruption; social justice, equality and community service; leadership and followership; national consciousness.

Why civic education matters

- It produces informed, responsible citizens who obey the law, respect the rights of others, participate in elections, pay taxes and contribute to national development. It reduces ignorance, intolerance, corruption and social vices.

CLASS EVALUATION

1. Define civic education.
2. Who is a citizen?
3. List three components of civic education.
4. State two importance of civic education to a nation.

WEEK: TWO

CLASS: SS1

SUBJECT: Citizenship & Heritage Studies

TOPIC: Values & Virtues

Introduction

- Values are the principles and standards that a society considers worthwhile — they guide behaviour and decision-making. Virtues are good moral qualities that express these values in action.

Types of values

- Personal values — honesty, self-discipline, contentment, hardwork. Social values — cooperation, tolerance, hospitality, respect for elders and the rule of law. Family values — love, obedience, care, responsibility. National values — patriotism, unity, loyalty, self-reliance, justice. Moral values — integrity, chastity, fairness. Spiritual and religious values — faith, mercy, forgiveness.

Values and Nigerian society

- Nigeria's national values are enshrined in the constitution and the national anthem: unity and faith, peace and progress. Values are learnt from the family, school, religious bodies, the mass media and peers.

Consequences of bad values

- Corruption, examination malpractice, cultism, drug abuse, dishonesty and lawlessness. Good values build trust, discipline and development.

CLASS EVALUATION

1. Define values and virtues.
2. Give three national values of Nigeria.
3. Where are values learnt? Mention two agents.
4. State two consequences of negative values in society.

WEEK: THREE

CLASS: SS1

SUBJECT: Citizenship & Heritage Studies

TOPIC: Citizenship & National Identity

Introduction

- Citizenship is the legal status of being a member of a state, with accompanying rights and duties. National identity is the sense of belonging to a nation — its symbols, culture, history and aspirations.

Ways of acquiring citizenship in Nigeria

- By birth — born in Nigeria of Nigerian parents, or born outside of Nigerian parents.
- By registration — a foreigner married to a Nigerian, or a person of full age born outside who has lived in Nigeria lawfully for 15 years, may be registered.
- By naturalisation — granted by the President to a foreigner who has resided lawfully for 15 years, is of good character, accepts Nigerian culture, is useful to the nation and takes the Oath of Allegiance.

National identity

- Elements of national identity: the national flag (green-white-green), coat of arms, national anthem and pledge, the currency (Naira), national symbols (the eagle, the red shield and the horses), festivals and language. The national dress and food also strengthen identity.

Rights and duties

- Citizens enjoy rights (life, liberty, education, vote) and owe duties (obey laws, pay taxes, defend the nation, participate in elections, keep public property). Dual citizenship: a person may hold another nationality by law — with the limits the constitution provides.

CLASS EVALUATION

1. Define citizenship.
2. Name the three ways of acquiring citizenship in Nigeria.
3. List the elements of Nigeria's national identity.
4. State four duties of a Nigerian citizen.

WEEK: FOUR

CLASS: SS1

SUBJECT: Citizenship & Heritage Studies

TOPIC: Rights & Obligations of Citizens

Introduction

- Human rights are the entitlements owed to every human being simply because he or she is human. The 1999 Constitution (Chapter IV) guarantees fundamental rights to every Nigerian.

Fundamental human rights in Nigeria

- Right to life; right to dignity of the human person (no torture, slavery or degrading treatment); right to personal liberty; right to fair hearing; right to private and family life; right to freedom of thought, conscience and religion; right to freedom of expression and the press; right to peaceful assembly and association; right to freedom of movement; right to freedom from discrimination.

Obligations of citizens

- Obey the laws of the land; pay taxes and rates; defend the country (national service); vote during elections and participate in civil duties; respect the rights of others; keep public property; report crimes; help maintain peace and order.

Limits on rights

- Rights are not absolute: they may be limited by law in the interest of defence, public safety, public health, public morality and public order — and they end where another person's rights begin.

CLASS EVALUATION

1. List four fundamental human rights in Nigeria.
2. State three obligations of a citizen.
3. Can a citizen's rights be limited? Explain.
4. What is the difference between a right and a privilege?

TERM: FIRST 2026/2027 ACADEMIC SESSION

WEEK: FIVE

CLASS: SS1

SUBJECT: Citizenship & Heritage Studies

TOPIC: Responsible Citizenship & National Development

Introduction

- A responsible citizen is one who knows and fulfils his duties while claiming his rights, and contributes to the growth and unity of the nation.

Qualities of a responsible citizen

- Patriotism and loyalty; obedience to the law; honesty and integrity; respect for others and tolerance of differences; hardwork and self-reliance; willingness to serve (community service, national service); participation in politics and governance; protection of public property; environmental consciousness.

National development

- Development is the improvement of the socio-economic and political well-being of a people. Individuals contribute through hardwork, payment of taxes, entrepreneurship, good citizenship and the rejection of corruption and crime.

Youth and national development

- Young people are the leaders of tomorrow: they develop skills, engage in lawful ventures, avoid drug abuse, cultism and examination malpractice, participate in sports and community projects, and use the media responsibly.

CLASS EVALUATION

1. State five qualities of a responsible citizen.
2. Define national development.
3. How can a young person contribute to national development?
4. Explain why corruption hinders development.

WEEK: SIX

CLASS: SS1

SUBJECT: Citizenship & Heritage Studies

TOPIC: Leadership & Followership

Introduction

- Leadership is the ability to influence and direct people towards a common goal. Followership is the willingness to accept and support leaders while contributing to the same goal. Both are needed for a healthy society.

Types of leadership

- Autocratic — the leader decides alone; quick but dictatorial.
- Democratic — the leader consults decisions; participatory and inclusive (the best for a democracy).
- Laissez-faire — the leader gives full freedom; can cause disorder.
- Servant/transformational — the leader serves and inspires positive change.

Qualities of a good leader

- Integrity, honesty and transparency; vision; courage; humility; good communication; fairness and justice; accountability; self-discipline; empathy and the ability to listen.

Qualities of a good follower

- Loyalty; obedience to lawful directives; constructive criticism, not blind obedience; hardwork; cooperation; honesty; respect for leaders and colleagues; willingness to speak the truth when leadership goes wrong.

CLASS EVALUATION

1. Define leadership and followership.
2. Compare autocratic and democratic leadership.
3. State four qualities of a good leader.
4. How can a follower correct a leader's mistake without disloyalty?
