TERM: FIRST 2026/2027 ACADEMIC SESSION

WEEK: ONE

CLASS: SS3

SUBJECT: Citizenship & Heritage Studies

TOPIC: Responsible Citizenship

Introduction

- A responsible citizen is one who knows and fulfils his duties while claiming his rights, and contributes to the growth and unity of the nation. Citizenship is both a legal status and a moral call.

Qualities of a responsible citizen

- Patriotism and loyalty; obedience to the law; honesty and integrity; respect for others and tolerance of differences; hardwork and self-reliance; willingness to serve (community service, national service); participation in politics and governance; protection of public property; environmental consciousness; and rejection of corruption and crime.

Duties to the state

- Paying taxes; obeying laws; voting; defending the country; reporting crimes; keeping public property; participating in civic programmes.

Rights and responsibilities in balance

- Rights (life, liberty, education, vote, fair hearing) are matched by duties; there are no rights without responsibilities. A citizen can only demand his rights if he performs his duties.

CLASS EVALUATION

1. State five qualities of a responsible citizen.
2. List four duties of a citizen to the state.
3. Why must rights and duties go together?
4. How can a student show responsible citizenship at school?

WEEK: TWO

CLASS: SS3

SUBJECT: Citizenship & Heritage Studies

TOPIC: Leadership & Followership

Introduction

- Leadership is the ability to influence and direct people towards a common goal. Followership is the willingness to accept and support leaders while contributing to the same goal. Both are needed for a healthy society.

Types of leadership

- Autocratic — the leader decides alone; quick but dictatorial.
- Democratic — the leader consults decisions; participatory and inclusive (the best for a democracy).
- Laissez-faire — the leader gives full freedom; can cause disorder.
- Servant/transformational — the leader serves and inspires positive change.

Qualities of a good leader

- Integrity, honesty and transparency; vision; courage; humility; good communication; fairness and justice; accountability; self-discipline; empathy and the ability to listen.

Qualities of a good follower

- Loyalty; obedience to lawful directives; constructive criticism, not blind obedience; hardwork; cooperation; honesty; respect for leaders and colleagues; willingness to speak the truth when leadership goes wrong.

CLASS EVALUATION

1. Define leadership and followership.
2. Compare autocratic and democratic leadership.
3. State four qualities of a good leader.
4. How can a follower correct a leader's mistake without disloyalty?

WEEK: THREE

CLASS: SS3

SUBJECT: Citizenship & Heritage Studies

TOPIC: Public Accountability

Introduction

- Public accountability is the obligation of public officials to account for their actions, decisions and use of public resources to the people they serve. It is the heart of good governance and the fight against corruption.

Mechanisms of accountability

- Constitutional bodies — the Economic and Financial Crimes Commission (EFCC), the Independent Corrupt Practices Commission (ICPC), the Code of Conduct Bureau (CCB), the Office of the Auditor-General, the Public Complaints Commission and the Ombudsman.
- Institutions — the National Assembly's oversight and Public Accounts Committee, the courts, the media, civil society and the Bureau of Public Procurement (due process).
- Budgets — the annual budget, TSA (Treasury Single Account), and the Fiscal Responsibility Act.

Obstacles to accountability

- Corruption and bribery; weak institutions; secrecy and lack of transparency; poverty and ignorance; political interference; slow judiciary; fear of victimisation; ethnic and godfather politics.

Benefits

- Public funds are used for the people; government becomes trusted; investment grows; services improve; the civil service works better.

CLASS EVALUATION

1. Define public accountability.
2. Name three anti-corruption agencies.
3. State two obstacles to accountability.
4. Why is the mass media important for accountability?

WEEK: FOUR

CLASS: SS3

SUBJECT: Citizenship & Heritage Studies

TOPIC: Civil Society & NGOs

Introduction

- Civil society is the sphere of organised, non-state groups through which citizens pursue common interests — NGOs, trade unions, professional bodies, faith groups, the press, community organisations and student unions.

Functions of civil society

- Educating citizens and creating awareness (public enlightenment campaigns); defending human rights and exposing abuses; fighting corruption and holding government accountable; providing services (health, education, relief); promoting civic participation and voter education; mediating conflicts; protecting the environment; and influencing policy through advocacy.

NGOs in Nigeria

- Local NGOs (e.g. CLEEN Foundation, Enough is Enough, the Nigeria Labour Congress as a union, COBES, and faith-based bodies like the Christian Association of Nigeria and the Nigerian Supreme Council for Islamic Affairs) and international NGOs (Amnesty International, Transparency International, ActionAid, UNICEF, UNDP, Save the Children) working on rights, health, education and governance.

Challenges

- Fighting for funds and foreign dependence; government hostility or co-optation; lack of coordination; poor capacity; corruption within some groups; the risk of being used for political ends. Strengths: grassroots reach, speed, independence and expertise.

CLASS EVALUATION

1. Define civil society.
2. State four functions of civil society.
3. Give two examples of NGOs in Nigeria.
4. Mention two challenges facing civil society.

WEEK: FIVE

CLASS: SS3

SUBJECT: Citizenship & Heritage Studies

TOPIC: National Consciousness & Patriotism (Revision)

Introduction

- National consciousness is the awareness of belonging to a nation with common symbols, history and destiny; patriotism is the love and devotion to one's country shown in words and deeds.

Symbols and identity

- The flag (green-white-green: the green stands for agriculture/land, the white for peace and unity), the coat of arms (the eagle, the horses, the shield, the wreath and the motto 'Unity and Faith, Peace and Progress'), the national anthem, the pledge, the colours of the currency, and the festival days (Independence Day, 1 October; Democracy Day, 12 June; Armed Forces Remembrance Day, 15 January).

Ways of showing patriotism

- Respecting national symbols; obeying laws and paying taxes; participating in elections and civic duties; defending the country; promoting unity and unity in diversity; rejecting corruption, tribalism and nepotism; celebrating national festivals; doing honest, excellent work; and promoting Nigeria abroad.

Obstacles to national consciousness

- Ethnic and religious divisions; corruption; regional imbalances; bad leadership; poverty and unemployment; foreign cultural influence; and fake news. Remedies: value re-orientation, good governance, education, social justice, and the practice of good citizenship.

CLASS EVALUATION

1. Define national consciousness and patriotism.
2. What does each colour of the flag represent?
3. State three ways a student can show patriotism.
4. Mention two obstacles to national unity in Nigeria.

WEEK: SIX

CLASS: SS3

SUBJECT: Citizenship & Heritage Studies

TOPIC: Civic Education and National Development (Revision)

Introduction

- This week reviews how civic education contributes to national development: the knowledge, skills and values that make citizens productive, law-abiding and development-oriented.

Components revised

- The constitution and rule of law; fundamental rights and duties; democratic processes (elections, voting, party politics); public accountability and anti-corruption; values and virtues; national identity and symbols; leadership and followership; civil society; social justice; road safety and environmental education; and health and HIV/AIDS awareness as civic issues.

Civic education and development

- An informed citizenry demands good governance; educated voters choose better leaders; civic awareness reduces crime, corruption and intolerance; civic values (integrity, hardwork, unity) release the productive energies of the nation.

Youth participation

- Join clubs and student unions; participate in community service; vote and be counted; report corruption; avoid cultism, drug abuse and examination malpractice; use social media responsibly; and develop skills for self-employment.

CLASS EVALUATION

1. List five components of civic education.
2. How does civic education reduce corruption?
3. State three ways young people can participate in national development.
4. Why are values important for development?
